MISHAWAKA HIGH SCHOOL

MISHAWAKA, INDIANA

A NEW REGIME. At special meetings in September, new Principal W. E. Thurston tells students what he expects them to contribute to the new year.

INCREASED EFFICIENCY. Self service for buying school supplies speeds up sales the second semester.

A NEW ATMOSPHERE. A friendly smile from Judy DeVliegher and the bright newly-painted halls greet George Goessens, who attended school in Germany last year.

NEW ATTITUDE. Advanced French students show an eagerness to learn in the bright atmosphere of the new section from new teacher, Mrs. Mary Jane Kass.

1966 . . . Year of Changes

New People Make Changes to Give MHS New Look

Brand new people bring brand new ideas. This is exactly what happened to our school this year. Our new principal Mr. Walter E. Thurston promoted better attitudes toward studying and more respect for school authority and property. Whether the change was a better scheme for buying supplies or an improvement in school morale, we liked the new ways. Not all changes were intangible. We found new surroundings such as freshly painted lockers and classrooms a bright incentive to do better work. New club directors, new coaches, and new teachers gave a fresh approach to our clubs, sports, and classes. It was an unexpected year for us with ever-changing surroundings as well as spirits and attitudes.

New People: 548 Freshmen, 6 Coaches, 15 Advisors,

NEW DIRECTOR. Mr. John Long inspires students to work harder on more difficult music.

A NEW PRINCIPAL. Concerned about everyone, Mr. Thurston reviews the programs of two freshmen.

NEW STUDENTS. Happy to be a part of Mishawaka High School, freshmen throng from gym.

17 Teachers, 2 Assistant Principals, and 1 Principal

NEW FRIENDS. At Clinc's Thouly Kastanaki, this year's foreign exchange student from Greece, chats over a coke with another new student, freshman Cathy Riederer.

A VISITOR. Student teacher Mr. Joseph Fross from Indiana University uses a Mi-Hi Guide to direct freshmen to their next class.

Although Mr. Thurston was our most important change, the freshmen were the largest and most unfamiliar portion of newness. Making the big transition from junior high to high school, they found taking notes and keeping assignment books something new in their education. Suddenly they seriously thought of futures ranging from college to war in Viet Nam. They joined many new activities and were especially predominant in the new cheerblock.

Those of us who lived within a mile of school could no longer drive to school. Our friends who were not restricted registered their cars with new assistant principal Mr. Eugene Dykstra. Also aiding Mr. Thurston was new assistant principal Mr. Thomas Rice.

Among the 17 new teachers, Mrs. Mary Jane Kass and Mr. Thomas Amos told us of their travels in France and Ethiopia. Mrs. Kass toured France last summer with a group of her students. Mr. Amos recently served two years with the Peace Corps. Wishing to help him bring three Ethiopian boys to our high school next year, we contributed some of the money for their trip.

We were not too busy bustling through the halls to notice other new faces. New to our student body was Thouly Kastanaki, our foreign exchange student from Greece. In honor of Thouly the Student Council flew the Greek flag.

Certainly important to sports fans was the growing interest in basketball which can be credited to Mr. Marvin Wood, our new coach, and the determination of his boys.

More Discipline, Better Methods Improve Attitudes

BETTER CARE. Maintenance men show students the work involved in refinishing a desk.

MORE GUIDANCE. Sophomore Counselor Jeanette Davis advises Carl Heiser about graduation requirements. All counselors were put on a full-time basis this year.

NEW INTERESTS. Mr. Tom Amos, former Peace Corps member, wears Ethiopian garb.

In our year of change we remembered the sanding demonstration that revealed the time and effort needed to sand desks and promised to keep books and desks free from doodling. We liked getting books in class and even more the way we could breeze through the cafeteria for book supplies the second semester. This was the year we knew what was expected of us. With a new respect for authority, we observed rules which we had previously ignored such as "no gum chewing" and "no running in the halls." We dressed in conservative styles, girls remembering go-go boots were no go, and boys that blue jeans were out.

Inspiring the faculty with colorful slides showing good examples, Mr. Thurston encouraged teachers to redecorate dreary bulletin boards inside the classrooms. In a bright, clean atmosphere and with a new desire for learning, we tackled math problems and English compositions. With more emphasis on good discipline and no cheating, most of us resolved to study harder and better. With better methods and more equipment studies became more enjoyable. Biology and sewing students worked in a pleasing atmosphere of the newly equipped labs while language students tried the new big-ear headphones in the language labs. Although we considered ourselves unjustly hindered by new rules and regulations and complained because we liked to complain, we realized their full significance toward the overall transformation of our school and were proud of the results.

NEW EQUIPMENT. Freshman Diane Calvin uses a new sewing machine that is stored under the counter when not in use in one of the newly-equipped clothing labs.

DRIVING REGULATIONS. Mike Elbode looks on as Bob Flora registers his car with Mr. Gene Dykstra.

SERIOUS APPROACH. Seniors Suzie Walton and Martha Shaffer know that a thorough preparation means a better education.

School Spirit Zooms With Introduction of Cheerblock

FIRST CHEERBLOCK. In new uniforms the predominantly freshman cheerblock adds zest to basketball games. Steve Chung joins them at one of the pep sessions.

New People Bring New Ideas to Club Programs

NEW PLAY COACH. Mr. James Wright shows Sherri Foust how to register fear as he directs the rehearsal of his first play at MHS, Cuckoos on the Hearth.

CLUB QUOTA. Senior counselor Vic Wukovits tells Cindy VanDeWalle that to abide by a new rule she will have to resign from one of her two presidencies.

This school year was a different one indeed. Changes of every kind confronted us. Adjusting to these changes was sometimes vexing, sometimes fun. Several clubs re-elected officers this fall to replace students who held two offices as the new club quota ruling limited us to membership in three organizations and only one officership.

New advisers and sponsors added a touch of freshness and variety to a few organizations while three entirely new activities offered us wider opportunities. The new Ski Club organized by Mr. John Chelminiak sponsored skiing trips to Little Switzerland and Mt. Wawassee. The new International Relations Club invited students from foreign lands to express their feelings about American life. Prodding fans to action at the basketball games was the goal of the Cheerblock. Under the guidance of new co-sponsors the FTA staged a "Dear Teacher Week" instead of the usual one day affair. Different techniques, more challenging and diversified music, new equipment, and a Chamber Choir were changes made by the new choral director.

NEW DARK ROOM. Miss Suzanne Kamm, the new Alltold adviser, fiddles with the enlarger in the new newspaper darkroom.

I AM
A XMAS

Student Life

From football pep sessions with Mr. Thurston demonstrating tackling positions, to a nuclear age assembly with irradiated whiffle balls, we were educated, entertained, and inspired. We were excited about Homecoming and electing Student Council officers and impressed by the quiet beauty of the Pre-Easter service. It was a year filled with change and contrast.

AUTOGRAPH PARTY. At the Miskodeed Antograph Party in May, students made use of all available space to sign their yearbooks.

LIVING COLOR. The Christmas Vespers is the best loved of all traditions at MHS. The "'Adoration of Shepherds" is one of the 13 living pictures.

Traditional Events Survive,

NO PEEKING. Freshmen and juniors took the traditional vision tests. Other tests such as the T.B. skin test and the hearing test were also administered.

CHARIOT RACE. Elizabeth Homner pushes charioteer Pat McGee with a plunger. The Saturnalia is a traditional event of the Latin Club. Instead of Christmas gifts the toga-clad guests exchange candles in the custom of the ancient Romans.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY. In one of the two yearly inductions, new inductees of National Honor Society solemnly pledge to uphold the standards of the society.

Though Some Acquire New Angles, New Features

In the midst of a changing atmosphere, students experienced many traditions at MHS. Students enjoyed the things which they had heard about from former MHSers. They ate the turkey dinner before Thanksgiving vacation, caroled at Christmas time with club groups, meditated at the Pre-Easter Service, and excitedly received the carnations sold by the Alltold on Valentine's Day. "Oh my aching feet!" bewailed many a girl in high heels as upperclassmen donned their Sunday best for dress-up day the Friday of their class play. The darkened auditorium, the rich tones of the organ, the ethereal sounds of the choir, and the impressive tableaux set the mood and scene for the traditional Christmas Vespers. Underclassmen reverently observed the program which was presented at a B assembly the Monday after Vespers' Sunday.

When considering the lighter side of students, one realized that the tradition of goofing around was innate in fun-loving teenagers. The antics of club initiations always evoked humorous and embarrassing situations. Many initiates remembered smiling three consecutive times, singing original songs, saluting veteran members, giving impromptu demonstrations, or reciting original compositions. Some things will always remain a part of MHS.

POST OFFICE. Delivering students' Christmas greetings to other students in sponsor rooms is a yearly practice of the Hi-Y.

Director Wright's Whodunits Puzzle Audiences

MYSTERIOUS FINDING. David (Mike Godair) rushes into the house holding The Girl in the Rain, the strange amnesia victim.

COLD-BLOODED MURDER. Because Thomas (Kurt Mull) the butler tried to blackmail Natalie (Brenda Cavanah), she silenced him permanently. Eve (Kay Smet) screams in horror. Natalie then forces Eve to take the gun.

The Junior Play cast, under the direction of coach Mr. James Wright, presented The Girl In The Rain, a three act mystery by James Reach, on March 25th and 26th. David Underhill (Mike Godair) brought home his fiancee, Natalie Price (Brenda Cavanah), to meet his mother, Mrs. Underhill (Mary Hunter). The evening of their arrival David found Eve (Kay Smet) lying on the sidewalk in front of his house. The summoned Dr. Moody (Jim Wise, Bill Bradbury) thought Eve to be faking amnesia. Since there was a mysterious murderess at large, all except David were suspicious of the unknown Eve. David had fallen in love with her despite the warnings of Dr. Moody and the evidence concerning the Hall murder case uncovered by society reporter Karen Bennett (Nancy Cook, Janis Gildner). The plot thickened as David's old college chum, Larry Cotton (Pat O'Connell, Terry Waggoner) visited him and recognized Eve as the murdered man's sister. Fear mounted as Natalie, the real murderess, shot the butler, Thomas (Kurt Mull). The new maid, Julie (Pat Arata, Sue Echols), handed David a letter telling of the guilt of both Thomas and Natalie.

TRAPPED. "I've caught a murderess!" exclaims David (Mike Godair) as he struggles with Natalie (Brenda Cavanah) after discovering her true identity.

At Junior and Senior Plays

"Break a leg!" was a familiar phrase used by well-wishers before the performance of the Senior Play. Mr. James Wright directed his first play at MHS this year, a comedy-mystery in three acts by Parker Fennelly. The senior class presented Cuckoos on the Hearth on November twelfth and thirteenth.

The scene of the play took place in the living room at Harmony Hearth, the home of the Don Carltons just a few miles from Portland, Maine. Don Carlton (Bob Pearson) was a scientist working for the government. The Professor (Mike VanBruaene) and "Doc" Ferris (Marc Snyder) attempted to steal a secret formula. They picked up Reverend Underhill (Dennis Spalazzi) as a fellow traveler. All three had to spend the night at Harmony Hearth because of a violent snow storm. By invitation Zadoc Grimes (Ron Shown), a gruff, eccentric writer, was also spending some time with the Carltons. Lulu Pung (Sally Flatt, Sherri Foust), a half-witted cousin of the Carltons. Charlotte Carlton (Sally Renner, Cindy VanDeWalle), Don's wife, and Zadoc were left to stay with the three strangers as Don departed for Washington, and the action began to unfold.

HARMONY HEARTH. Abby Rodick (Karen Sprouse) presented a prologue and appeared again before the third act of the comedy.

Teens Stage Skating Parties on Spur of the Moment

GALA AFFAIR. At the spring Prom junior and senior couples danced to the tunes of Eddie Knight and his orchestra in the "Hall of the Mountain King."

FOLK SINGERS. Cassie Stringer and Dick LeMon entertain Y-Teens with several folk selections at a potluck supper.

DIP DEEP. Kent Kemmerling pours for his date, Cheri Friend, at a pre-Mistletoe punch party. The Mistletoe Ball was the biggest social event of the holidays.

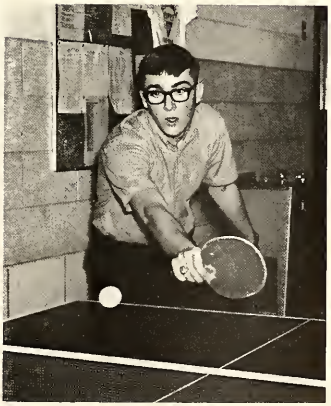
But Spend Weeks on the Prom

The social life of MHSers was full and diversified. Many teenagers wiled away the hours at various dances such as the Mid-Semesters and Homecoming dances which were school-sponsored. Other dances were the Y Centre and Stepan Center dances. Before formal dances such as the Mistletoe and the Prom, spruced-up couples sipped drinks at punch parties in friends' homes. Girls gorged and gabbed at misnomered slumber parties. "Fellas" improved their shooting eye at pool and played a rough and tumble game of touch football. Both boys and girls thrilled at the escapades of James Bond in 007 movies and laughed at the stupidities of Batman and the boy wonder, Robin. Winter offered MHS students a chance to enjoy the crisp, invigorating outdoors. Ice skating at Merrifield Park and sledding and skiing in the Mishawaka hills were replaced by water skiing on the river and tennis games in the park when the temperature rose. Those who sought more cultured forms of entertainment attended concerts and plays in South Bend.

In the spring club banquets and picnics crowded students' social life. Students at MHS always found ways to amuse themselves.

EASY DOES IT. Commercial Club initiates precariously passed lifesavers.

SEMESTER BREAK. Nancy Kraft and Ron Phillippi swing to the music of The Intruders at the Mid-Semesters Dance. Teens welcomed this fun after final exams.



AFTER HOURS. Dale Deardorff unwinds during a leisurely game of ping-pong at the Y. Students often sought a release from the tensions of school life.

Beautiful Floats, Pretty Girls, and School Spirit

DEVIL FROM CITY. At the Homecoming Pep Session Mr. Kenneth Armel refutes the threats of a City Red Devil (Dave Frank).

A keyed-up football team, a student body teeming with spirit, a parade down Main Street, and seven pretty girls in convertibles all combined to provide the makings of a Homecoming. The team spent hours in preparation for this big event; the students had their spirits and hopes high; float committees put hours of work into their club entries; the Student Council president crowned Sally Renner Homecoming Queen during the half time ceremonies of the game. For the first time we were told who was queen at half time rather than at the dance. Another first for Homecoming was the performance of the A Cappella Choir on the field prior to the crowning.

At the close of the basketball season, Maroon supporters adorned with buttons and derbies and clad in maroon and white clothes crowded into the gym for the sectional pep session. Continuous screaming, yelling, and clapping highlighted this pep session, the liveliest and noisiest one of the year.

Add Color to Homecoming Events

HEY YOU! Float committee members squabble over a piece of cloud while constructing the Student Council float.

ARCH OF TRIUMPH. Napoleon (Mr. James Braunsdorf), Josephine (Becky Smith), and a devil (Fred Myers) ride on the Art Club float. It won the prize for beauty.

Sometimes Young Mishawaka

YULETIDE CUSTOM. Chuck Gleissner helps decorate the Christmas tree in the main hall.

TELEPHONE CHATTER. Modern Geometry temporarily takes a back seat as sophomore Jane Zimmerman catches up on the latest news of the day.

TANDEM TWOSOME. Steadies Marcia Kraft and Roger DeFauw enjoy the mild weather and each others company as they take a bike hike on a lazy fall afternoon.

Leads Gay, Frivolous Life

Youth seemed to have no trouble indulging in fun. They found it in the simple joys of life such as leisurely walking home on a beautiful spring day absorbing all that is around, sharing the feelings of a close friend, and delighting in family togetherness. Talking was a favorite pastime of teenagers. Choice bits of gossip, the latest fads and fashions, the "in" things to do, and the latest jokes were only a few of the subjects discussed by teens. Meeting friends in a pre-selected spot has always been a practice of teenagers. Whether at the flagpole, the drugstore, or just at someones locker, students possessed an uncanny system for locating friends. Teenagers ate to live and lived to eat. They devoured hamburgers, hot dogs, french fries, onion rings, pizzas, malts, and soft drinks by the dozen. The teenager did know how to enjoy life.

GREEK GREETING. Several MHS students were on hand to welcome the new AFS student, Thouly Kastanaki. George Marzotto asks Thouly a question about Greece.

WIPEOUT. Dale Maloney awkwardly fails to keep his balance on his skateboard. Friend Mike Elbode observes, hoping to avoid the same fate. Sidewalk surfing is a very popular pastime of teenagers who do the "in" things.

ALL SMILES. Students did not find classes all drudgery. Most classes struck humorous notes which helped break monotony.

Awed by Civil War Assembly,

SERIOUS MATTER. The issuing of report cards changed many students' social life.

CONCENTRATION. Frivolity ends for seniors as the deadline for source themes nears. Most seniors regarded the research paper as their toughest English assignment.

ACCEPTANCE. Whether a student is able to attend the college of his choice depends on many things. Parents and students listen intently as representatives from several colleges talk about requirements, scholarships, and college life.

Worried Over Future, Students Show Serious Moods

Beyond the seeming outer crust of apathy, most teenagers really did care about the destiny of their country and of themselves. Many students expressed special concern as they discussed the war in Viet Nam, the racial problem, political platforms, and governmental actions. Religion was also a frequent topic of conversation. As part of the local ecumenical movement, students attended joint youth group meetings and interfaith services.

Students realized more and more the importance of grades. Because of the increased need for good grades, many students revamped their study habits and buckled down. For some teenagers the idea of becoming more serious and realistic was amazingly strange and perhaps a little frightening. They felt twinges of uncertainty concerning their future.

Juniors and seniors were in a reflective mood as they watched and listened to the Civil War assembly sponsored by the History Club. These students were obviously impressed with and touched by the moving assembly as many sauntered to their classes with somber countenances and tear-filled eyes.

ARNDT AWARD. Mr. Russell Arndt, a former teacher and coach, presents a DeMolay trophy named in his honor to Tim Walters, the senior athlete with the highest grades.

HELPING OTHERS. Generous MHS students contributed money or food to the Share Project before Christmas. The Hi-Y and Y-Teens, sponsors of this annual project, filled baskets to give to needy families in the community.

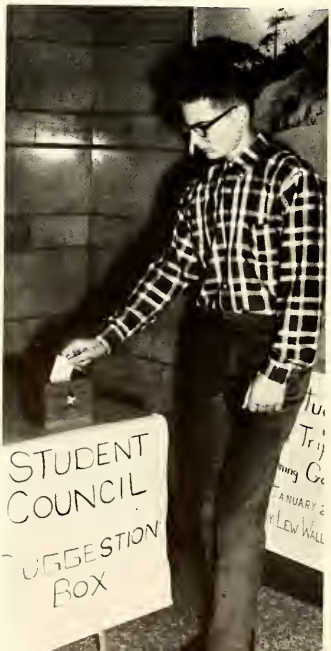
STRAWBERRY PICKER. In the new industrial design course boys study and criticize this model of a strawberry picker.

Pretty Shells

Activities

Skiing down the snowy slopes of Little Switzerland or debating hot issues on racial problems were some of the varied activities open to students who joined the two new organizations, Ski Club and International Relations Club. In the 31 older organizations 15 new advisers brought fresh approaches to activities of the organizations and pepped up programs.

Student Council Celebrates Twenty-Fifth Anniversary



NEW IDEA. Mark Hoffman drops his suggestion into the new suggestion box. In this way students voiced their new ideas, opinions, and criticisms to the Council.

Walters, Vogler, Gleissner, Grant, Asher, Marzotto, Heyse, Kuharic.

and Changes Homecoming Format

The Student Council earned $1,183. During the summer about thirty volunteers delivered sample dishes for an oil company. With part of the earnings, the Council paid one-half the cost of the cheerblock uniforms and bought new stage curtains.

This year the Council changed the traditional activities of Homecoming. In the afternoon students cheered the team at a pep session and followed the parade of floats. Immediately after the game about 500 teenagers danced to the music of the Royals at the Homecoming Dance.

The Foreign Student Drive Committee received contributions from organizations, student donations, and collections at a basketball game. The Building and Grounds Committee secured a Greek flag to fly in honor of this year's foreign exchange student and purchased two large philodendrons for the main hall.

To give students a chance to relax at the semester break, the Council sponsored a dance. In March officer candidates hung posters and shook hands with voters in hopes of winning the election. The winners were installed at the silver anniversary banquet before Student Council notables of the past 25 years.

FUND RAISING. Looking over instructions before handing out dishes for a gasoline company, volunteers raised money for Student Council projects.

Y-Teens Promote Share Project To Earn $168.81;

POTLUCK. Freshman Diane Calvin and other Y-Teens fill their plates with delectables at one of the club's potluck dinners at the Mishawaka YMCA. Two sections often ate together and then went swimming.

Y-Teens varied their year with social events and service projects. In the fall the girls gave a get-acquainted party for the freshman girls, constructed a homecoming float, and invited their mothers to a formal recognition service. The different class sections gave several pot luck suppers followed by swims at the Mishawaka YMCA.

With the Christmas season came Project Share which is an annual undertaking of the Y-Teens and Hi-Y. This year $168.81, along with food donations, was collected; baskets were distributed to needy families in the area. The Y-Teens also hung the greens at the YWCA in South Bend, decorated the school Christmas tree, and presented a play based on A Christmas Carol for the members at a party in the Y.

The Y-Teen Cabinet met several times in the year to discuss the program and make suggestions to improve the club. Several members attended inter-club council meetings in the South Bend Y to discuss county-wide activities.

During the winter the Y-Teens with the Commercial Club worked in the concession booths at home basketball games. With the Hi-Y they presented the Easter program for students the day before spring vacation. Y-Teens ended their year with a style show and the election and installation of officers.

FLOAT CONSTRUCTION. Y-Teens Joyce DeNeve and Marilou Karst cover an angel wing and pitchfork for a homecoming float.

Head Sponsor Miss Harden was assisted by Miss Schenck, Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Smith, Miss Dunn, Miss Ritter, Miss Hinchman, Mrs. Nuner, and Mrs. Currier.

ELECTION. Linda Watkins studies the list of candidates for Y-Teen offices before making her selection at a meeting in April.

YULE PARTY. Cheryl Davis and Maggie Hardisty enact a new version of Charles Dickens' Christmas Carol which suggested that Mr. Scrooge's spirit exists even today. The members who were chosen to act in the play not only gained several hours toward their service awards but also had fun preparing the skit.

Hi-Y Consolidates; Debaters Discuss the Voting Age

DEBATE TEAM. Laffin, Schalliol, Bozarth, McGee, Veselak, Selke. This was Mr. Douglas Hall's last year as debate coach.

The Hi-Y changed its format this year by combining the four class sections into one club under sponsors Mr. Don Portolese, Mr. Robert Smith, and Mr. Don Cromer. In October the officers escorted the homecoming queen and her court. During the year members participated with the Y-Teens in the Share Project, decorated the school's Christmas tree, operated the mail service before Christmas vacation, and ran the concessions at the holiday tournament.

Several members learned about the functions of government when they represented the club at the "Youth in Government" program in Indianapolis.

Debate team members were also interested in government as they argued for and against the lowering of the voting age and compulsorary arbitration in labor disputes. After a semester of practice debates, the team battled with other schools. This year Mr. Douglas Hall coached his 28th debate team having started in 1938. Mr. Hall was one of the three founders of the St. Joseph County Forensic League which now has 14 members. His teams have won awards in meets and forums and for outstanding individual performances.

Award Winners Announced at Commercial Banquet

Sophomores, juniors, and seniors taking a commercial subject could join the Commercial Club. This year the club had 151 members. Various social activities highlighted the year beginning in the fall when the club held an initiation at Halloween. Later in the year there was a Christmas party and in February, a Valentine party. One of the speakers during the year was Miss Judy Braeckelaere, a former MHS student now working at Dodge Manufacturing Corporation.

In the spring the club asked local businessmen and school officials as their guests to a banquet. At this time a total of 24 pins was presented to the winners in beginning and advanced shorthand, typing, and bookkeeping tests. A representative from Ball Band presented a trophy to the senior girl in the Commercial Department who was most outstanding in her work. Miss Ruth Foulke, head sponsor of the club, was assisted by Mrs. Jan Nicodemus and Miss Helen Green.

BALLOON STOMP. Commercial Club members pounce on each others balloons in an attempt to break them in a game at a Christmas party. Members also played lively games at their Halloween and Valentine parties.

COMMERCIAL CLUB OFFICERS. At Typewriter: President Bickel. Standing: Vice-President Portolese, Treasurer DeLaurelle, Secretary VanderBeke.

TAFFY PULL. With hands greased and candy partly cooled Home Ec Club members Janice Knisley and Renee Ziemendorf carefully begin to pull their homemade confection.

Home Ec Club members demonstrated their homemaking skills throughout the year. They pulled taffy, prepared Thanksgiving baskets for the needy, gave a banquet for their mothers in the spring, and raised money for the purchase of a lace table cloth and new punch cups for the school by selling fudge, baked goods, and mistletoe. In addition they heard Mrs. Frances Chikard from the gas company speak and with the help of Sponsor Charlotte Bragg planned a trip to Pokagon State Park.

White Caps-White Coats under the sponsorship of Mrs. Gladys Conant helped in several health services in the school and community. They assisted in the nurse's office, collected for the Tuberculosis League at several Notre Dame games, and helped during the hearing and vision screening tests and in the tuberculosis skin testing program.

In the spring of 1965 they held an installation where Janet Wever was installed in her second term as president of the club. During the 1965-66 school year White Caps-White Coats initiated new members and held a Christmas party, a spring picnic, and an installation of the officers for next year.

FTA INDUCTION. Old member Judi Cocquyt serves punch to new member George Marzotto following the ceremony in the library.

A picnic at Castle Manor initiated a year of varied activities for members of the Future Teachers of America. At that time Miss Emily Davidson and Mr. Walter Johnson were introduced as new sponsors of the club. Later in the fall Mr. Russell R. Myers, former MHS principal, spoke to the club about his experiences in the teaching profession at a candlelighting service for the induction of new members. Instead of the usual gag gift exchange at the Christmas party, members brought canned goods to distribute to needy families.

For a moneymaking project members of FTA sold popcorn balls, and for a service project they honored the teachers with refreshments at a faculty meeting during Dear Teachers' Week. Junior and senior members became cadet teachers and observed classes at Beiger School. The election of officers and a spring banquet ended the 21st year of the club.

Throughout the year forty members of the two-year old Craftsmen club met bi-monthly and worked on special projects or school assignments in the print, machine, electric, or wood shop. In the fall members briefly abandoned the various shops to build their homecoming float which was called "Paradise Lost." Sponsor Mr. Kenneth Armel was assisted by Mr. Gerald Gerard, Mr. Milton Ross, and Mr. Carl Wiseman.

CRAFTSMEN OFFICERS. Looking over blueprints are Vice-President Morgan, President Cerri, and Treasurer Baranowski.

Book Guild members whetted their literary curiosities with trips to the Saint Mary's and Notre Dame libraries, a film on Ernest Hemingway, and a talk by Mrs. Oona Mozumder on the literature of India. The Guild also held a Christmas party.

Winning the homecoming float prize for beauty highlighted the Art Club's fall semester. They also toured art galleries, heard a talk on Greece, and had a Christmas party. They planned picnics, sketching sessions, and a trip to Notre Dame as part of their spring program.

To help members learn more of science, the Science Club toured the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry and planned other trips to Ball Band and Dodges in the spring.

The History Club built a homecoming float in the fall and planned an assembly called "The American Story."

Students interested in social studies had the opportunity to join a second club this year when Mr. Richard Bottorff and Mr. Thomas Amos started the International Relations Club. On their agenda were plans for a "Little UN" meeting and a talk by Mr. Amos on his Peace Corps experience in Ethiopia.

Language Clubs Break Pinata,

LATIN CLUB OFFICERS. Holding props used in the officers' play are Treasurer Schulte, Sergeant-at-arms Walters, Secretary VanDerVoort, Vice-President Micinski, and President Costa (seated). Sponsor was Miss Mary E. Hess.

SPRING BANQUET. According to Roman custom, slave Diana Costa feeds grapes to her master Greg Scheibelhut.

Latin Club members re-enacted the Roman chariot race as they used plungers to push each other down the hall on tricycles at the annual Saturnalia. Secret agent double-"O"-septem, Julius Bondus, was introduced in the officers' play. At the spring banquet the 2,719th birthday of Rome was celebrated.

At the Spanish Club Christmas party, blindfolded members tried to break a brightly decorated pinata with a stick. At last someone hit the target, and everyone scrambled for the candy dropping from the pinata. The club also planned a spring picnic.

During the year German Club members heard speakers John Werner, a native of Germany attending MHS; Mr. Richard Flynn, a teacher at Bingham; and Pete Fournier, MHS student.

The French Club's homecoming float called "Reign of Terror" featured a guillotine. The club also invited the French foreign exchange student from Washington High School to one of their meetings and decorated the Childrens' Hospital at Christmas.

SPANISH FESTIVITIES. Seeking to release a shower of candy from the pinata at the Spanish Club Christmas party, a blindfolded member gropes for the papier-mache creation.

GERMAN CLUB OFFICERS. Seated: Vice-President Shayler, Secretary DeLeury. Standing: Activities Chairman Salyer, President Beehler, Treasurer Goessens. Mr. Daniel Landis sponsored the club.

SPANISH CLUB OFFICERS. Front Row: Secretary Abrams, President Wagner, Vice-President Wise. Back Row: Treasurer Flood. The club was under the sponsorship of Miss June Johnston.

Twice during the year dramatists assembled in the auditorium to take part in the formal Thespian inductions under the supervision of the new sponsor, Mr. James Wright. After the formal rites they broke into gayer spirits when the initiates were asked to do impromptu dramatic performances. On the following day inductees completed their initiation requirements by smiling three times each time they saw a veteran Thespian. The members also held one informal induction for an inductee who had been ill at the time of the formal induction. By participating in the school's theatrical productions, students earned membership in the Emily K. Davidson Troupe 496, so named by the Thespians of 1965 to honor the play director who sponsored the society until this year. In the fall of 1941, Troupe 496 of the National Thespians was chartered with ten members and Miss Davidson as the sponsor.

Rookie actors and actresses joined Blackfriars, a club for underclassmen interested in dramatics. Under their sponsor, Miss Catherine Caranasios, the Blackfriars presented readings, pantomimes, and one-act plays. They also attended dramatic presentations together and sold tickets for the class plays.

Inducted Into Thespians and National Honor Society

A hush spread over the auditorium as President Phil Rhoade stood to read the names of new inductees into the National Honor Society at the fall induction. With tearful happiness 18 seniors assembled in the lobby, solemnly marched to the front of the auditorium, and took the NHS oath. In alphabetical order they walked onto the stage, signed the membership book, shook hands with Principal Walter Thurston, the club sponsor, and the guest speaker, Miss Hannah Lindahl, received pins and membership cards, and then took their places behind the 27 people who had been inducted the previous spring. On March 15 both juniors and seniors were inducted. After each induction at an informal reception, proud parents congratulated their son or daughter.

Under the co-sponsorship of Mr. Merle Blue and Mr. Ward Baker the society continued its tutoring service arranged through the underclass counselors for any students desiring help. NHS members were chosen by the faculty on the basis of leadership, scholarship, service, and character.

CAROLS. Halls ring with song at Christmas.

Back in 302 after spending a year in Room 248, the A Cappella Choir welcomed Mr. John Long as its new director. The Choir stopped practicing North Central and Christmas Vespers music to appear with the band at homecoming half-time festivities. Adopting the style of the Swingle Singers who perform Bach vocally with jazz accompaniment, the Choir presented "Bouree for Bach" at the PTA Founders Day program.

Thirty members of the 87 member choir were chosen for the Chamber Singers, who sang at community functions. In the spring the group sang anthems at the Pre-Easter service and joined with the band and orchestra for the traditional Battle Hymn of the Republic at the May Festival. One of the numbers the choir enjoyed was How Excellent Thy Name by Howard Hanson.

Apprentice members were required to audition and to pass an exam on musical terms before being inducted into Music Honor Society. In its 15th year the Society presented the Stagefright Concert and traveled to Chicago to see Hello Dolly.

MARCH! Mr. B. barks orders to the band.

Freshmen counted aloud as they tried to keep in step with critical upperclassmen during early fall marching sessions. Sometimes the directors coped with students who made a left flank instead of a right. Mr. Walter Bowers was assisted in directing the 102 member band by Mr. Robert Needham, former teacher at Emmons School. Mrs. Wava Shaffer worked out routines for the pompon girls and baton twirlers.

Later in the fall Concert Band rehearsal began. Melodies from Bach to Sousa became more polished each day in preparation for the three concerts that the band gave during the year.

A 21 member Pep Band provided music for pep sessions and during half time at home basketball games. After winning regional contests, five bandsmen went to Indianapolis for the state music contest, and all received superior ratings.

Martens, Smith, Kraft, Neece. Vocal: Stringer. Cellos: Principal

CELESTA. Strong fingers produce delicate music as Peter Dexter plays the orchestra's new celesta. The three-octave keyboard makes chime-like tones by causing little hammers to strike bells. This instrument made its debut in Aura Lee at the MHS Winter Orchestra Concert.

Celesta Sends Out New Sounds

Strains of the Nutcracker Suite came from Room 248 as the orchestra used its new celesta. The bell-like tones of this instrument sounded across the auditorium several times during the year as part of concert programs. Among the many pieces the orchestra performed, members especially enjoyed selections from My Fair Lady.

The Concert Orchestra took part in three concerts during the school year: the Winter Concert, the Spring Orchestra Festival, and the May Music Festival. Between the acts of the Junior and Senior Class Plays, the Theater Orchestra provided music, and at school and community functions various ensembles and trios performed. Individuals in the group participated in the North Central Orchestra and the Manchester College String Festival. The orchestra ended the year by taking part in Baccalaureate and Commencement.

In June 1965 the Indiana Division of the American String Teachers Association presented a Regional Gold Award of Merit to the string section and Director Madolin Hackett. Officers for 1965-66 were Marcia Kraft president; Jim Fuller, secretary-treasurer; and Steve Chung, librarian.

Chung, Darbin, Rhoade, Germano, Grunwald. Violas: Principal Harris, Boettcher. Flutes: Paula Dexter, Riederer. Clarinets: F. Kreiter, Bozarth, T. Kreiter. French Horns: Jones, Siri, Scott. Basses: Principal VanDerVoort, Morse, M. Dexter, W. Jasiewicz. Oboes: Renner, Cavanah. Trombones: Kozlowski, B. Jasiewicz. Trumpets: Dickson, Maeyens, McCandlish. Conductor: Hackett.

For Concerts and Assemblies

PRACTICE. Cellists concentrate on their music during a fifth hour rehearsal.

WILL IT FIT? For most high school students the weekend of Teachers Institute was a welcome holiday, but for those involved in the North Central combined chorus and orchestra, it was filled with practicing and performing. Mary Jane Dexter loads her bass into the car for the trip to Adams.

RED CROSS. High school representatives Mary Hunter and Carol Kalil fill gift boxes with school supplies and toilet articles, which were bought with student donations. The boxes were sent to school children overseas. Miss Rebecca Kabel sponsored the group.

Service Clubs Build Backdrops Collect Tickets, and Mend Books

Working behind the scenes in the school were five service clubs. High School Red Cross room representatives collected money to buy things to pack into boxes which were sent to children overseas. Every period 14 students gave up study halls to be hall guides. They picked up absence slips and ran errands for teachers and office workers.

Mr. Al Dalkowski's ushers handed out programs and collected tickets at the school plays and concerts. Handling the action behind the curtains was the Stage Crew. These boys built backdrops, managed the lighting, and set up the stage equipment.

Twenty-nine Hoosier Student Librarians under Mrs. Helen Teeters assisted in the library. They signed out books, filed cards, shelved books, and learned other library skills.

LIBRARIANS. Seated: Secretary Cline, Treasurer Bottorff. Standing: President Hoogland, Vice-President McCandlish.

STAGE CREW: Front Row: Larson, J. Hesch, B. Hesch, Humphrey, Hixenbaugh, Herthoge. Back Row: Tuminski, Harmon. Mr. Howard Currier was the club's sponsor.

Board Okays Budget; Quill and Scroll Sells Covers

The Leila B. Heimbach Chapter of Quill and Scroll held two inductions this year, one for MHS and the other for the new Jackson High School chapter. Members qualified for this honor society by doing outstanding work on one of the publications. At their Press Dinner they entertained members of local newspapers and the guest speaker Mrs. Lois Claus, former Alltold advisor, with slides satirizing school life.

The Board of Control approved or rejected club budgets, freezing the funds of those not approved by January.

BOARD OF CONTROL. Seated: Mr. Dykstra, Miss Wilson, Hibschman, Mr. Rice, Hess, Mr. Thurston, Miss Miller. Standing: Swanson, Wukovits, T. Kreiter, F. Kreiter, Mr. Hall. Absent: Mr. Baker, Mr. Rietveld.

Alltolders Greet New Advisor

Having kicked off their subscription drive with the announcement of a raffle and with posters of Bob Dylan, the Beatles, and the DC5, Alltolders settled down to business in a new atmosphere. Staffers had painted their room during the summer, acquired a new darkroom and darkroom equipment, and welcomed a new sponsor, Miss Suzanne Kamm.

During most of the year a four-page Alltold came out on Fridays. The new columns, College Corner and Sports A-Go-Go, appeared along with old ones such as Brenneman's Bugle and Place the Face. An evaluation of the Student Council, editorials on the apathy of MHS boys, an interview of the Lettermen, Bruce Iserman's short stories, photo essays, and picture editorials brought praise and comment.

Besides the regular issues, Alltolders put out Christmas, sectional, April Fools Day, and senior editions. To serve the school in other ways, the staff compiled the Student Directory and sold and delivered Valentine carnations.

NEWSBOY. Bob Bozarth delivers Alltolds as Rickie Kabzinski calls off locker numbers.

CHEESE, PLEASE. Academic Editor Kea Rea, backing out a door to shoot a classroom scene, tests the staff's new camera.

Imitating Their Senior Friends,

Contriving original picture ideas, cropping photographs, and revising copy, senior Miskodeed editors met printer's deadlines. Junior Miskodeeders checked picture identifications, wrote captions, interviewed club sponsors, and performed other unpleasantries shunned by their senior taskmasters.

Besides encountering the usual difficulties of publishing a yearbook, editors had their special problems. Last year, in order to fake pictures of Cap and Gown Day, senior editors tracked down juniors who would fit borrowed robes and mortarboards. The underclass editors hoped for a certain number of students to drop school so that their rows of pictures would end evenly. Devising tactful methods of persuasion, the faculty editor asked teachers to return their questionnaires. During the summer and fall the art editor revised the book's layout and designed the cover. The student life editor, armed with flashes, cameras, and power packs, covered innumerable school events.

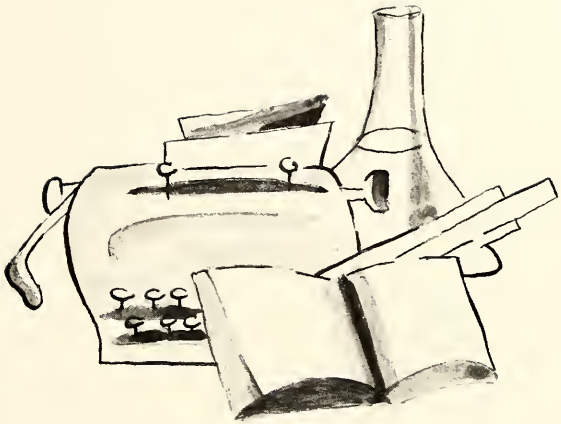
Academic editors wracked their brains thinking of novel pictures and captions to enliven the sometimes dull subject matter. Adding nine lines to the National Honor copy and cutting twelve lines from Miskodeed copy tested the ingenuity of the activities editors. The girls on the staff often questioned the terminology of the sports editors, claiming it to be unintelligible. The editor-in-chief did the opening section and closing page, checked pictures and copy, and kept track of the rest of the staff's progress.

The business staff also had its problems. The business manager ordered two extra picture engravings and then worried that he would have to pay for them. Seeking a subscription drive gimmick, the circulation manager wrote a 6-page skit, only to have it rejected by the rest of the staff. The office manager faced a chaotic schedule when her less efficient colleagues swamped her with typing just before deadlines.

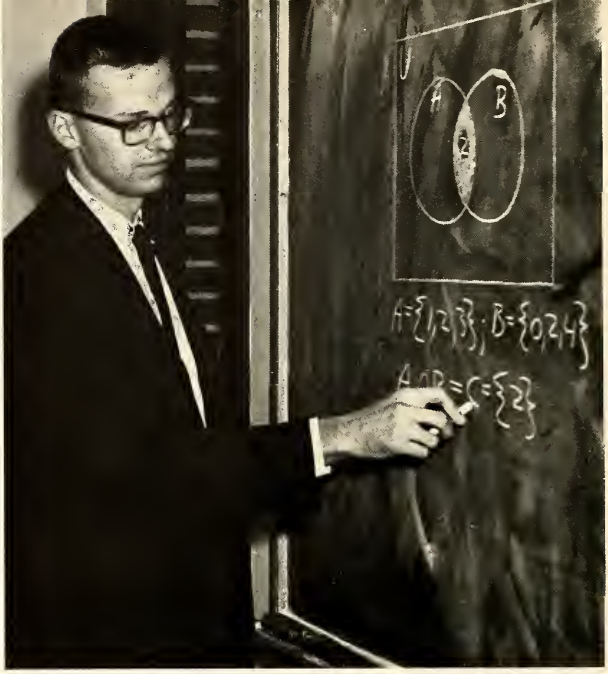
In spite of all the difficulties, the 1966 Miskodeed staff under Miss Martha Miller's supervision completed their book and delivered it at the Autograph Party on May 20.

DOUGH BOY. Handling the financial side of Miskodeed, Business Manager Chuck Schalliol counts money from the subscription drive with Linda Dinkledine and Carol Wagner.



Academics

"Hello, this is . . ." were words heard in the hall outside the General Business room where students learned to conduct business over a telephone. In other classrooms we acquired math skills, learned to speak a foreign language, and studied social science problems. With 20 per cent of the faculty new to high school this year, we acquired new skills and ideas.



NEW PROCEDURES. Modern math was new to students and teachers alike. Mr. Baetsle explains the meaning of sets and elements to one of his Algebra I classes.

HELP! A spark of hope flickers and fades as freshman Randy Smith asks Mom for help in working an algebra problem. Many parents found that math is modern.

Sets, Graphs, and Unknowns Baffled Mathematicians

Freshmen were not alone this year in being baffled by math. Teachers in all branches of mathematics began teaching the modern method in the fall. Even seniors who were sure they would escape the "fate" found they had to study second year algebra—modernized. The freshmen had an easier time having sampled the new system in junior high. Knowing some of the basic principles, they learned the definitions of sets and elements and solved basic equations in algebra.

Sophomore geometry students found that proofs of theorems constituted a major part of their course. Congruent and equilateral triangles, bisection of angles, and tangents to a circle were terms that sophomores came to know and understand.

Pre-engineering students in trigonometry solved problems involving the principles used by surveyors when measuring distances. Preparing for higher mathematics, trig students were introduced to calculus and an alytical geometry.

Boys on a vocational course studied trade math in which they learned the basic skills applied to their trade. In this course electricians solved problems involving watts and amperes while printers worked with picas and draftsmen with inches.

GRAPHS. After plotting an equation on the board, Margaret Hardisty explains to her fellow trig students how she did it.

LAST MINUTE STUDYING. Freshmen Steve Watts and Dave Hardisty use their lunch period to do some last minute reviewing before an algebra test the sixth period.

Biologists Try New Laboratory;

The new biology laboratory provided a different atmosphere for sophomores, who, to the dismay of many squeamish girls, found the dissection of earthworms, grasshoppers, crayfish, and frogs to be the same smelly process. Many peered wondrously through their microscopes at paramecia, vorticellae, and other protozoa. Heredity problems and the circulation of goldfish puzzled other students.

In the same old lab chemists worked frantically to complete late experiments and memorized the various energy shells and quantum numbers. Many students discovered that they looked forward to Wednesday when, as a break in the daily lectures, they used slide rules and log tables to solve problems.

Down the hall the record number of girls added a new look to the physics classes which in previous years had been almost exclusively male. Soda straw balances, over-flow cans, Jolly balances, and Geiger counters baffled many students as they worked on experiments. (Those physicists pampered by lab assistants in chemistry last year took turns handing out equipment to students.)

Also using the physics lab, trade science students solved problems like those found in local industries. These problems involved the principles of both physics and chemistry which might be valuable in their future occupations.

BALANCE. As one of the first experiments in physics, Larry Barnett calibrates a spring balance by using known weights.

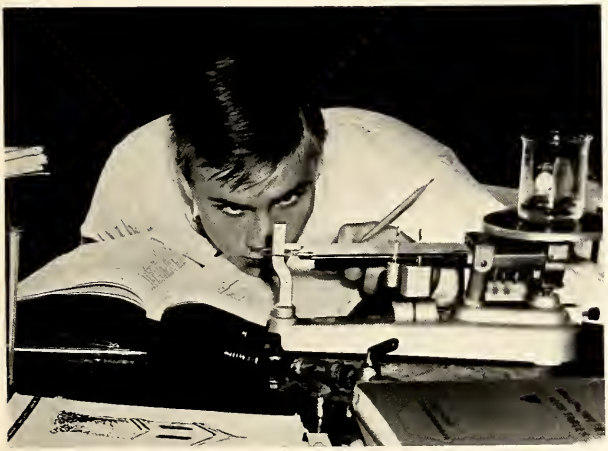
SPECIMENS. Biologist Carol Nix studies toad and worm specimens in the new biology lab.

EXPERIMENT. One of the first experiments performed by chemistry students is pulling glass. George Pollitt looks on as his partner makes an eye dropper.

Record Number of Girls Invades Physics Classes

MICROSCOPE. Sophomore Lauretta Mecham peers through her microscope to find the tiny creatures known as protozoa.

ASSISTANT. Lab assistant Dale Deardorff gives Ray Thompson the equipment he will need to complete his physics experiment.



WEIGHTS. Senior physics student, John Nihiser, stoops low and concentrates as he checks the weights for his physics drill in measurements.

Their Own Language Mystifies Some English Students

DEMONSTRATION SPEECH. Emphasizing the need for a steady hand, Stephanie Keleman shows the proper way to shave.

While some students found foreign languages hard, others found English could be difficult too. Students of grammar studied the parts of speech and learned to build simple, compound, and complex sentences. Some found that correctly fitting the parts of a sentence into a diagram could be tricky, especially infinitives and participles.

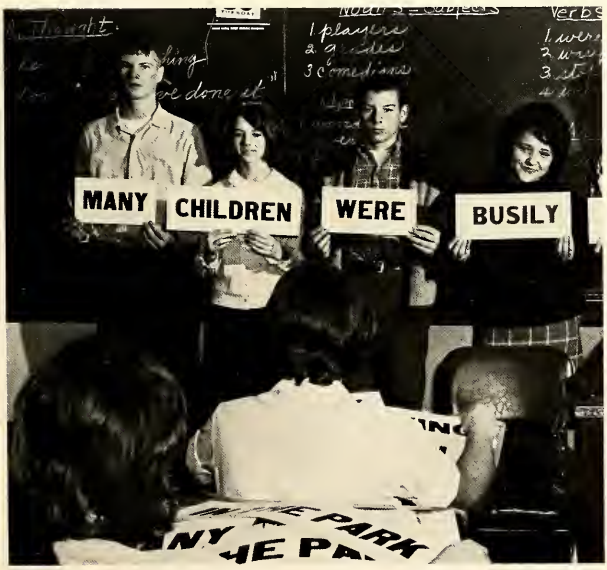
Sophomores in English III wrote their first source themes. This helped to prepare them for the longer source theme required in English VII. Seniors taking English found that writing a 3000-word research paper was difficult.

Literature was also included in the curriculum. Freshmen interpreted the symbolism in David Copperfield and read Romeo and Juliet. In American literature sophomores read the works of Hemingway, Frost, and Steinbeck. Junior English students in English literature enjoyed Dicken's A Tale of Two Cities. They also read excerpts from Beowulf and Chaucer's Canterbury Tales and selections from G. K. Chesterton, Browning, and Kipling. Seniors ended their high school English studies with a comprehensive study of world literature.

TASK. Alan Stafford carries 13,000 vocab cards for senior English to the bookstore.

SPEED. A student in developmental reading follows the pacer light to increase speed. Students also used films and timed essays to improve rates and comprehension.

STUDENT LITERATURE. Sophomores Steve Rodts and Janet Skiles discuss the student entries in their recently purchased literary magazines with Miss Maryjane Ritter.



SENTENCES. Students in Miss Lela Ward's freshman English class use flash cards to form sentences and to learn the difference between participles and gerunds.

HARD WORK. Jenny Stebbins finds writing her sophomore source theme a challenge.

WEDDING. Students in Miss Mary Hess's Latin III class show the rites involved in a typical Roman wedding. The bride sits ready to have her hair parted into six braids with a sword as the groom looks at the robes he must wear.

Teenage Linguists Correct Mistakes by Listening to Tapes

Students who wished to meet college language requirements had four areas of study from which to choose. French classes, under the direction of a new teacher, Mrs. Mary Jane Kass, learned to pronounce diphthongs and to produce nasal tones. Weekly lessons in the language laboratory helped students with pronunciation, while sessions in the classroom improved their grammar.

First-year Latin students discovered that many English words are direct derivatives of Latin. Reading lessons had a two-fold purpose since they served as grammar drills as well as sources of information on Roman customs and history. Several students presented special reports on mythology. Second and third year students translated the works of Caesar and Cicero.

Spanish classes spent many hours in the language lab listening to tapes which correlated with lessons in cue texts. Both the tapes and books helped students in memorizing vocabulary and in recognizing words.

Those taking German found actual German newspapers helpful in translation drills. German books, papers, and magazines were useful as current sources to the advanced linguists who prepared their German source themes. Once a week all students recited the German poetry which they had memorized.

READING LESSON. Students in Latin I found that by reading aloud they more easily understand the meaning of a Latin story.

LAB. Junior Dave Holdren follows a cue text while listening to a Spanish tape.

LOCATION. Tom Baiz and Gary Harmon find that locating places on the map of France helps to enrich their enjoyment of third year French.

DIFFICULT COMMUNICATION. Seniors Joe Davis and Jerry Long, sociology students in Mr. Robert Heck's class, using gestures instead of their voices, have difficulty telling each other what they did last Saturday night.

BATTLES. John Jacobs prepares to re-enact one of the battles of the First World War on his H-O scale battleground.

'West Side Story' in Soci Class

The social studies department offered something for almost every student. Three new teachers and several student teachers in the social studies classes added a new look to this department this year.

United States history classes probed the causes and results of wars, depressions, and reforms throughout American history. World history students, on the other hand, discussed the developments in foreign nations. In international relations the contemporary world situation prompted discussion on improving the good neighbor policy. Economists studied the value of American currency in the economy of other countries.

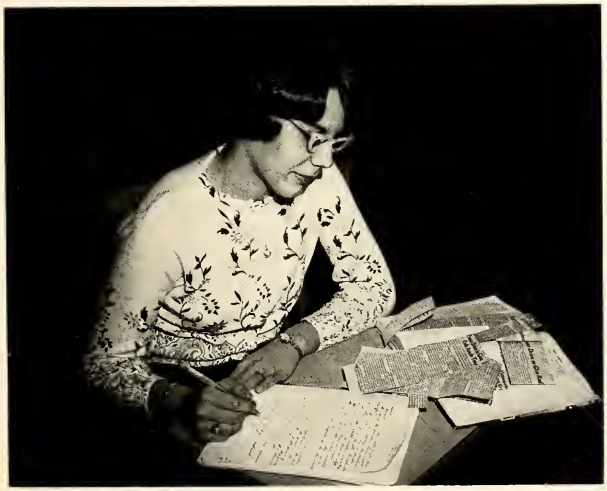
Sociologists in Mr. Robert Heck's classes proved that communication using only gestures was possible. Other soci classes analyzed the reason for juvenile gangs and the meaning of music from shows such as West Side Story.

After hours of preparation, committees in government classes presented their findings to the class. These committee reports offered a change from daily lectures.

DOGFIGHT. Mr. Ward Baker shows how air battles of World War II were fought.

MAP. Gaelyn Nelson colors a map for world history showing the world's great religions.

Stimulates Teen Gang Discussion



CLIPPINGS. Cynthia Costa prepares summaries of newspaper articles to be used as a basis for discussion in government class.

Designing Strawberry Picker or Printing Alltold,

PLANE AND VICE. Using a vice to hold the board for his bookshelf in woodshop, Jack Wilson levels the surface with a plane.

GEOMETRIC CONSTRUCTIONS. Carl Kempf uses a triangle and T-square to solve geometric problems in Drafting I.

PENTAGON. Drafting I student David Bent inscribes a regular pentagon on the blackboard with a T-square. Other boys used his example in their own drawings.

Boys Use Both Hands and Minds

In the new industrial design class boys found that they needed both logic and creativity in solving problems. They gained self-confidence in tackling new problems and cultivated a taste for good design. Bringing projects from home to the classroom, they debated the usefulness, compared the costs, and re-designed them. While studying poster advertising, boys designed book and source theme covers which told part of the story. Boys also solved everyday problems. For instance, they discussed the problems of storing old newspapers and the placement of recipe cards when cooking. Consumer evaluations prompted students to compare electric razors, refrigerators, and electric carving knives of similar price ranges for function, convenience, operating cost, and appearance and ease of storage.

Most boys in woodshop chose walnut when making cabinets, tables, and book ends, while the others used cherry, maple, and ash. Several decorated their masterpieces with mosaics. Printing the Alltold and all official forms for the School City, the print shop boys kept the presses rolling. Student electricians repaired radios and televisions and wired simple house circuits. In architectural drafting, boys designed homes and constructed balsa models of these homes from the blueprints.

TOWER. Boys in print shop inspect a halftone negative before making an offset plate.

LATHE. John White uses a metal lathe in Machine Shop I. Boys also use milling machines and drill presses in making tools used in the machinist trade.

PAPER HOLDER. Willie Shannon smooths the base of his spindle file in machine shop.

New Furnishings, Equipment Brighten Home Ec Labs

PRESSING. Pat Schelstraete presses her skirt in Clothing II knowing that pressing makes the difference between an attractive garment and one which looks homemade.

Working in the pleasant surroundings of the remodeled sewing rooms. Clothing I students made pajamas and robes. In the room next door, more advanced seamstresses learned to make a professional-looking pinked hem instead of using seam binding. Hoping to finish before construction deadlines, many unhappy girls laid down their sewing if the firebell rang while those in the fitting room quickly changed clothes or paraded outside in unfinished garments.

Foods classes followed a new course of study. Instead of units like salads and casseroles, teachers prepared units based on the prime ingredients such as eggs, vegetables, and meat. Foods girls made cakes from scratch to compare texture, flavor, cost, and appearance with those made from box mixes.

Child care classes made children's toys, dresses, and dungarees and gave them to younger brothers, sisters, and relatives or stored them in a hope chest. Transparencies and movies supplemented the texts in child care and home nursing. Using toy furniture, home management girls planned the furniture arrangement in homes. Others scanned catalogues and magazines for furnishings.

NEW MACHINE. Clothing I student Vikki Dalley pins the seams in her robe before using one of the new sewing machines. Girls in clothing classes enjoyed the new furniture and sewing machines in the Home Ec wing.

ARRANGEMENTS. Girls studying home management in Mrs. Patricia Smith's class plan their dream homes. Using toy furniture, they decide upon an arrangement that will provide the most living space.

PANCAKES. Student Frances Miles flips the fluffy pancakes she is making in Foods III.

FRITTERS AND WAFFLES. After baking waffles and frying corn fritters in Foods III, Barbara Jewell samples them.

PREVIEWING. Students in Miss Kathryn Hinchman's Shorthand I class chant words corresponding to shorthand symbols. The chanting helps students preview the symbols and words and serves as a review before tests.

ADDING MACHINE. Using a small adding machine, senior Bonnie Irish totals the columns of a combined journal for advanced bookkeeping.

Job Rotation, a New Method, Acquaints Girls With Office Work

The business education department offered courses for students interested in pursuing a business career as well as for those who desired a general knowledge of business procedures. Students taking bookkeeping used journals, balance sheets, and ledgers. Besides making and interpreting financial statements, students learned to keep payroll records and to depreciate long-term assets.

Six new electric typewriters and new tables in both typing rooms added a new look to the commercial wing. Working toward a goal of 46 net words per minute, first-year typing students typed special speed drills and analyzed their errors to improve accuracy. As a Christmas project Typing I students made cards using characters from the typewriter to form trees and other Christmas designs.

In shorthand students used symbols for letters and words when taking dictation. They worked toward a goal of 60 words per five minute take. Students taking advanced shorthand strove to transcribe business letters at 30 words per minute.

FRIDAY. In a beginning shorthand class Miss Kathryn Hinchman reviews the formation of the symbol for the word Friday.

Student Drivers Change Tires

VASE. Linda Frick smooths out the rough edges on her ceramic pottery for Art V.

Creative students expressed themselves in a variety of ways. Learning the basic principles of color and design, Art I students used poetic phrases as inspiration for their paintings. Although sculpture is usually thought of as forming clay into different shapes, there are other types of sculpture. Art V classes covered wire forms with burlap and then plastered the entire object. In addition to this type, all students made wax and clay sculptures and chose wood or stone for the final one.

In driver education right, left, and three-point turns were among the first things students learned to do. Many students dreaded going out on snowy mornings for weekly driving sessions, while girls hoped to avoid changing a tire. After completing the course, students passed their tests and obtained their driver's licenses.

After conquering other teams within their gym classes, the winning girl's volleyball teams competed in a night-time interclass game. On the other side of the gym curtain, quick-moving boys escaped whizzing balls during dodgeball games. At the Y swim classes used float boards when learning various swim kicks. Those taking life-saving developed needed muscles and stamina for saving lives.

Librarians helped students find reference material, while cafeteria cooks provided nutritious lunches for students. Searching for the safest places during a tornado, the Health and Safety Committee chose the home ec wing, new addition, and stadium as shelter areas when practicing disaster drills.

A LA CARTE LINE. Joyce Updike, student cashier, hands Fred Schulte his change.

Athletics

A new coach, new principal, and new cheerblock prompted students to cheer more vigorously for their team, while Mr. Marvin Wood, one of Mishawaka's six new coaches, led the basketball team to a better record and hopes for an even brighter future. The Athletic Council with a new athletic code spelled out a player's responsibility to his team and school.

MHS Sloshes in Mud to 12-6 Victory Over Central,

INJURED. Coach Bob Heck and end Steve Wiseman help injured tackle Lance "Baby Beef" Beehler off the field.

The 1965 football season was one of contrasts. Starting out slowly, the Cavemen improved rapidly and by the year's end were no longer the conference doormats. Inexperience in the line resulted in the poor early showing, but as the line improved, the team improved.

Starting out with a 27-0 drubbing by Gary Mann, the Cavemen failed to score until the fourth game against Washington. Sandwiched between the Mann game and the 23-7 loss to Washington were losses to Riley, 26-0, and to Goshen, 20-0.

With a four loss record the Cavemen faced Adams, the conference co-leaders with a 3-1 record. In a 23-14 victory the Cavemen toppled the Eagles from the conference lead.

In the MHS homecoming game the rejuvenated Cavemen lost a thriller to Michigan City. Leading 6-0 at halftime, the Cavemen defense weakened and gave City two touchdowns via the air route. City won 12-6.

The MHS squad traveled to School Field to battle Central. Playing in a steady downpour of rain and snow and in ankle-deep mud and water, the Bears and Cavemen waged a defensive battle. Both teams pushed across a TD in the first half despite the almost impossible playing conditions. The Cavemen forces erupted from the locker room at halftime deadlocked, 6-6. MHS sloshed across the goal line in the second half to win, 12-6.

Elkhart next played host to the onrushing Cavemen. Fans anticipated a close game between two teams with mediocre records, but just the opposite proved to be true. The Cavemen ran away with the game with 336 yards rushing enroute to a 26-0 win.

In the final game MHS and Penn met for the first time in gridiron history. After receiving the opening kickoff, the Cavemen drove to Penn's 20-yard line, only to be stymied by a Penn fumble recovery. The Cavemen sustained a crushing blow in the first quarter when all-conference halfback Glenn Nelson injured a knee. After the Cavemen's initial drive the game settled into a defensive battle. In the second half sputtering offenses plagued both the Kingsmen and Cavemen as neither team mustered a serious TD threat. The outcome was a 0-0 tie.

Underclassmen contributed a great deal to the resurgence of the Cavemen in the second half of the season. In his final duty as head football coach, Mr. Bob Heck awarded letters to six sophomores and eight juniors. Eleven seniors earned sweaters. Team members voted Glenn Nelson most valuable player and tackle Lance Beehler most valuable lineman. With the resignation of Coach Bob Heck, the Cavemen lost a devoted and talented leader. Mr. Heck had a 31-28-2 record for eight years.

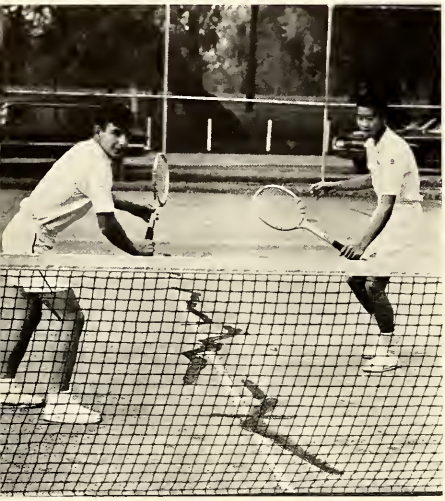
Netmen Stroke to First Winning Season in 13 Years



VICTORY. Junior racketeers Mark Swanson and Steve Chung team up to win a doubles match. Both Mark and Steve helped spark the tennis team to a winning season.

With four of the first five varsity players returning, the 1965 tennis squad rolled to their first winning record in 13 years. Mr. Larry Lindsay, a newcomer to the MHS coaching staff, succeeded Mr. Russell Arndt, coach of the past 17 teams.

Junior lettermen Mark Swanson and Steve Chung, senior lettermen Kevin Tansey and Tony Barrett and varsity newcomer Ron Portolese led the team from a dismal finish of last place in the 1964 conference season to the fifth position in 1965 and an overall record of 5 wins and 4 losses. During the season the netmen had a four match winning streak which included a 6-1 trouncing of Riley and a 4-3 beating of high-ranked Adams, last year's conference co-champions. Twice during the season the tennis team sneaked by Penn with identical scores of 4-3.

All the hard work and determination resulted in five victories including a 22-33 drubbing of arch-rival Penn and a 22-36 victory over first time foe, Marian Knights. Battling for the top running position, seniors George Marzotto and Dale Deardorff and junior Larry Minzey pushed each other to better times. Senior Marzotto lowered his time for the two-mile course from 10:40 to a near school record of 9:59.

Teammates honored Minzey and Marzotto by electing them as honorary co-captains for the season, and Marzotto ended his cross country career by receiving the Ralph Burgess Award.

HELP! Surrounded by three Michigan City Red Devils, senior Ted Spear looks for an open teammate to pass the ball to.

New faces appeared on the basketball court too. Coach Marvin Wood accepted the head coaching job and brought an entirely new staff with him. Mr. Larry Lindsay became the B-team mentor, and Mr. Carl Wiseman coached the freshman charges.

Basketball practice sessions held by Coach Wood developed into a spectacle of cooperation. Added to the Maroon defensive plan, an airtight full court press harassed the opponents and compelled the team to play as a unit. On Monday after games, Coach Wood pinned a critique on the bulletin board telling the team what needed improvement.

Opening the season against Plymouth, the varsity included eight underclassmen who dominated the team. The Cavekids stayed with the more experienced and taller Plymouth Pilgrims for three quarters but were outdistanced in the final stanza and beaten 68 to 54.

Losing the next game to a red-hot Concord Minuteman squad by a count of 79 to 70, the Cavemen returned to the friendly confines of their home court. The Cagers played a much taller St. Joe squad, but the Maroons harassed the Indians with their deadly press and won 67 to 54.

Practicing New Drills, Players Learn Wood's System

The men of Coach Wood made winning a habit and crushed the outmanned Jackson Tigers, 79 to 46. Traveling to Portage, the Cavemen hung on to win the game 81 to 80 and establish a three years. The streak was abruptly ended by a tough Riley Wildyears. The win streak was abruptly ended by a tough Riley Wildcat crew. Never leading in the contest, the cagers were crushed 75 to 49.

Journeying to the Penn gym, the Cavemen collided with the Kingsmen. The Maroons trailed throughout the entire game, and hope for an MHS victory grew dim when the Kingsmen grabbed a nine point lead late in the game. Led by the hot hand of substitute Dennis Kring, the Woodmen caught fire and tied the score at the end of regulation play. When the smoke cleared at the end of the second overtime period, the MHS cagers won by a 71 to 67 score.

Winning four of their last six games, the Maroons entered the holiday tournament with high hopes of their first tournament championship. In their first game the Cavemen whipped the St. Joe Indians 86 to 82, but they succumbed to the much taller Adams Eagles in the championship round 68 to 61.

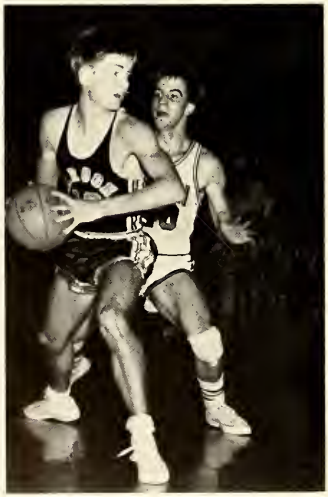
TEAMWORK. Drawing the Michigan City players surrounding teammate Bob Fitzsimmons off-balance with a head fake, Guard Dennis Decker prepares to thread a pass to "Fitz." Dennis was the third leading scorer on the team this season.

"Finally," Maroon Cage Squad Downs Penn Kingsmen;



THAT'S MY BALL. Guard Ted Spear grabs a loose basketball from the floor and begins a drive toward the basket.

The new year proved to be disastrous for the Maroons. Although the coach juggled the starting line-up in every game, no one could score or rebound consistently. In every contest the Cavemen were dwarfed by their over-sized opponents, but they were not out-hustled.

Even though the team lost the last twelve games in quick succession, the squad did provide thrills in the second half of the basketball season. Almost engineering a major upset at LaPorte, the cagers stumbled in the final stanza and lost, 70-65. The highly touted Muncie South Side Rebels found the Maroon press difficult to solve until the Rebels pulled away in the last quarter and won 93 to 68.

Spirit ran high before the start of the sectional. The "luck of the draw" provided the Maroons with Clay as an opponent, but the cagers couldn't find the range. Shooting twice as many shots as the Colonials, the Cavemen hit only half as many and lost, 53-50.

At the annual Kiwanis Club banquet members of the cage squad were honored. Dennis Decker received the most valuable player trophy while Bob Leiter was awarded the free-throw trophy.

DETERMINATION. Out-hustling two taller Riley Wildcats, Sam Watson rips a rebound from the boards and prepares to throw the ball down court. Only a junior, Sam was a valuable substitute during the second half of the season.

I GOT HIM! I GOT HIM! Attempting to cut off a possible Michigan City fastbreak, Bob Fitzsimmons scampers down court to get in front of the "Devil" guard.

YOUTH AND EXPERIENCE. Freshman Henry Wilk (top) gains valuable varsity experience while senior Joe Dietrich (bottom) uses his wrestling savy to win a match.

Dietrich Wins 14 of 16 Matches;

The Cavemen grapplers started the season with a spurt and ended with a phfft. After three wins in the first four matches, the wrestlers managed only one win in the remaining nine. The result was a 4-9 season record. With sixteen wins and only two defeats, senior Joe Dietrich posted the best individual season record. Wrestling in the 140-pound class, Joe was undefeated in dual meets with eleven wins, captured the conference title, and placed second in the sectional. In the Penn Invitational Byron Aldrich and Dave Futterknecht won titles, and Sam Travis placed second. The poor season record produced one bright spot, however. Of the fifteen varsity wrestlers ten were underclassmen, including Aldrich, Futterknecht, and Travis.

Linksmen Break School Record, Crack 300 Barrier

Belting the golf ball around the Eberhart-Petro course at practice, the linksmen looked like real winners. The squad had four seniors who had been lettermen on last year's team.

In the opening triangular match against Central and Washington, the squad shot a horrible 342 and lost to both teams. Next the Cavemen embarked upon a three game winning streak beating Goshen, Michigan City, and Adams in quick succession. Slumping, the linksmen didn't win another match until the mid-season defeat of Goshen 325-345.

Playing poor golf, the team started a five match loss streak that began and ended with Adams. Losing to the Eagles after the Goshen triumph, the linksmen didn't gain another victory until the Adams forfeit late in April.

After gaining their first victory in six matches, the golf squad played with renewed skill. Blasting the ball on drives and putting with precision, the linksmen fired a school record 299 to beat Central and Washington. Adding luster to the season, the team finished behind Riley in the Twin City tournament.

Individual performances by underclassmen in the spring of 1965 and the record of the mile relay team provided gleams of hope for future teams, despite a dismal record of 2 wins and 8 losses.

Bob Britton, senior hurdler and high jumper, received the "Dutch" Thurston award for being high team scorer. Seniors Rick Thompson (880) and Dennis Smith (pole vault) were strong in their events. In his first season as a high jumper, junior Ted Spear jumped six feet. Larry Minzey, a sophomore, sprinted the 440 in 51.9 seconds against Niles. His time, only 1.8 seconds off his brother Paul's school record, was one of the best in this area. The mile relay team of freshman Will Pooley, junior George Marzotto, senior Ken Kobb, and Minzey raced to a 3:35.0 time, near the school record of 3:33.2.

"Seeing Chuck LeMon come along fast in the last three weeks of the season and place in the state meet was my biggest thrill," said Coach Tom Rice while reflecting on his four-years as head track coach. In state meet competition, Mr. Rice coached LeMon to a fourth in the low hurdles in 1964 and Tom Richards to a second in the shot put in 1963. Mr. Milt Ross, former MHS pole vault star, completed four years as assistant coach.

Cindermen Build for Future

SWEEP. Senior Rick Thompson finishes just ahead of junior George Marzotto for a 1-2 sweep of the 880-yard run. These two thinly clads battled fiercely during the season for first position in this race.

CLEARING THE BARRIER. Senior hurdler Bob Britton easily outdistances his opponents to win the high hurdle race.

SMOOTH HAND-OFF. Demonstrating smooth coordination valuable to a good relay team, milemen George Marzotto and Ken Kobb execute a perfect baton exchange.

Plagued by errors and inconsistent pitching, the Maroons drooped to a 3-18 season. The poor showing was unexpected; for with several returning lettermen it looked as if a bright 1965 lay ahead. Then play began.

Opponents held MHS scoreless until the fifth game and outscored the Maroons 35 to 6 in the first seven games. The diamondmen's first win came over rival Central, 3-2. Goshen (10-1) and Washington (7-5) fell to the Maroons for the squad's remaining two victories. While outfielder Fred Kline led the team in home runs, shortstop Tim McCoy was the most consistent hitter with a .348 batting average. In the Twin City Tourney Central ousted the Maroons in the first game, 7-4.

While pitching for batting practice, Coach Don Portolese broke his kneecap when hit by a line drive. With a cast on his leg, he coached the team for several weeks.

The B-Team, faring not much better than the varsity, posted a 5-11 record. The 1965 MHS baseball picture can best be summed up, "It just wasn't a Maroon year."

ENTHUSIASM. MHS's 99 voice cheerblock yells its encouragement to the team at the Jackson game. Most members were freshmen and sophomores.

B-TEAM CHEERLEADERS. Mary Ann Pechi, Lori Eiswald, Captain Sue Ann Fagan, Jane Zimmerman, and Nanette Schnaible. All are sophomores except Sue Ann, who is a junior.

For Added Spark and Spirit, Girls Form a Cheerblock

With white gloves waving in unison against a maroon background and voices raised in harmony, the newly-formed cheerblock added volume and variety at this year's basketball scenes. Ninety-nine regular members and six substitutes practiced weekly under the direction of varsity and B-Team cheerleaders. Miss Mary Nicholson and Miss Theresa Taffee sponsored the group.

Besides spraining muscles, cheerleaders discovered yelling at games could be dangerous. Throughout the season referees and players stepped on them, and their heads often served as backboards. Mrs. Louise Gould supervised the girls.

VARSITY CHEERLEADERS. Debby LaDow, Jean Boozer, Captain Sheila DeWulf, Carol Davis, and Mary Hunter. Debby, Jean, Sheila, and Carol are seniors while Mary is a junior.

Athletic Council Adopts Conduct Code; M-Men Comply

GAA Girls Host Camping Trip For 14 Area High Schools

GAA girls favored volleyball over all other sports. The girls devoted 18 weeks practicing skills, forming preliminary teams, competing against themselves, and finally choosing players for the three best teams.

On September 25 and 26 Mrs. Louise Gould, sponsor, with the help of student chairman Karen Ebbeskotte, hosted 14 other schools in a weekend camping trip at Camp Eberhart. The girls hit cageballs, shot arrows, rowed boats, swung tennis rackets, and in the evening sang songs.

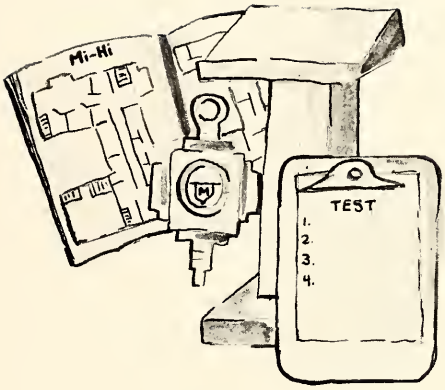
On February 15 the girls held their annual initiation. Old members performed such prankish stunts as squirting lemon juice into the mouths of new members who talked at the wrong time. But the initiation ended on an impressive note as each new member held her candle while being introduced to the club.

The girls ended their year with the traditional mother-daughter banquet at the South Bend YMCA. After dinner and the presentation of pins, numerals, letters, and the coveted bracelets, the girls and some of their mothers went swimming.

FAVORITE SPORT. GAA girls get the net ready for a volleyball game. They played volleyball two days a week for a semester.

SWEDISH FALLS. Karen Wells and Debbie Werbrouck do Swedish falls. From a standing position they drop to the floor and land on their hands while they lift one of their legs. GAA girls devoted a six-weeks' period to tumbling.

GAA OFFICERS. Secretary Sue Butz, President Patti Zieke, Vice-President Sally Bokhart, Sports Head Karen Wells, Points Chairman Cynthia Costa, Treasurer Cheri Seaman.



New & Familiar Faces

This year we made new friends. Mr. Walter Thurston, new principal, tried to greet us all and to learn all of our over 2000 names. In the halls we saw him chatting with students, and in the classroom we discussed our opinions and study habits with him. We made friends with new freshmen and students from far-away countries such as Greece and Germany.

Administration Steps Up Remedial Reading Program

TOP BRASS. Superintendent John J. Young constantly modernizes the Mishawaka schools to meet the growing demands for education.

"The School City's plans for the future include new buildings, new programs, and new personnel," commented Dr. John J. Young, superintendent of Mishawaka schools. This year Dr. Young and other officials worked on new programs to be added to the curriculum such as the remedial reading program and the vocational training program for potential drop outs.

Dr. Young's many duties included such things as enforcing school laws, recommending personnel to the Board of Trustees, and planning improvements in the schools. In addition to a busy professional schedule, Dr. Young pursued several interests such as investigating the European educational system and heading the $3 million drive for the addition to St. Joseph Hospital of Mishawaka.

Aiding Dr. Young, Assistant Superintendent Lowell Yaw handled the business affairs of the school city. The Board of Trustees, appointed by the city council, decided the policies to be carried out in the school city.

Dr. Young said, "This is a most important year at the high school. There is always a problem when a change is made in administration. Mr. Russell R. Myers made a tremendous contribution over the years. In Mr. Thurston, however, we have a top administrator. We feel he has done a fine job picking up the reins, organizing the school, getting acquainted with pupils and teachers, and planning an even better future for the high school."

RELAXATION. Dr. Young works with his wife in the garden of their new country home.

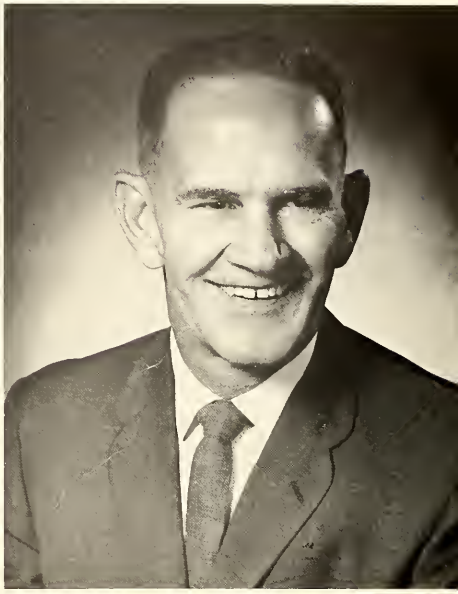
MONEY MEN. To balance the school city budget, Assistant Superintendent Lowell Yaw (left) and Dr. Young solve the problems of paying the teachers' salaries.

and Plans New Courses for Vocational Students

"I have many goals to accomplish in the five years I am to be principal of Mishawaka High School," said Mr. Walter E. Thurston. These words were typical of the new principal's forward looking approach. On the opening day of school, the change of the drab green color in the halls to the new light tan gave the building a new look. Elsewhere, classrooms, the cafeteria, the Alltold room, and restrooms were repainted. It was a year of planning for Mr. Thurston. In the future the science and commercial rooms will be modernized, and a second story will be added to the shops. To improve the curriculum, auto, barber, and beautician courses will be added to the vocational department. In the academic field Mr. Thurston worked toward better student attitudes and improved teaching techniques.

Mr. Thurston first came to MHS as a shop teacher and coach in 1931. In 1946 he became Supervisor of Health, Physical Education, and Safety for the school city. From 1951 until 1957 he was principal of Main Junior High School and then became principal of Emmons School. He plans to retire in 1970 and then "just travel around."

Commenting about the school year, Mr. Thurston said. "I feel that I have had excellent cooperation from my assistant principals, staff members, and students. I have the feeling that we have made great strides working together toward common goals. I've had the loyalty and cooperation of everyone."



NEW MAN. Principal Walter E. Thurston improves the appearance of the building and demands top work from students and teachers.

NEW FRIENDS. One of Mr. Thurston's innovations is surprise visits to classrooms. Visiting with students, he makes new friends such as junior Sam Watson.

AN ATHLETE. Mr. Thurston shows his versatility by playing football with Lance Beehler.

DEAN OF BOYS. While continuing as athletic director, Mr. Gene Dykstra took on a new job as the assistant principal in charge of boys' discipline and personal guidance.

DEAN OF GIRLS. Miss Lynetta Wilson helps girls with their personal problems, checks on their absences, regulates their social life, and talks about their problems to their parents.

Mr. Craven Succeeds Dr. Davis as Board President

BOARD OF TRUSTEES. Mr. Andrew Plodowski, board member; Mrs. LaVerne Speiser, vice-president; Mr. Frederick Craven, president; Dr. J. Robert Davis, secretary; and Mr. Delmar W. Anderson, treasurer, set up policies for the school city.

Deans Stress Student Discipline

As the first man in the new job of administrative assistant principal, Mr. Thomas Rice found his duties varied from computing senior averages to preparing the schedule of classes. Mr. Rice received a B.P.E. degree from Purdue University and an M.S. degree from Indiana University.

Mr. Gene Dykstra, assistant principal and athletic director, received a B.S. and Ed. M. degree from the University of Illinois. In his dual role he supervised all sports, maintained order in the halls, and disciplined the boys.

Miss Lynetta Wilson, dean of girls, graduated from Franklin College with an A.B. degree and from the University of Michigan with an M.A. She worked with girls and helped them with their problems and did other duties such as scheduling events on the social calendar.

ASSISTANT PRINCIPAL. In this newly created job, Mr. Thomas Rice does such tasks as making the budget, approving club expenses, supervising counselors, and ordering materials.

A strange stillness hung over the school halls Monday morning May 31, 1965. While working in her garden on the previous Friday evening, Mrs. Rae Hardisty Stoll died. Both the students and teachers felt the emptiness, missing her effectiveness as a teacher and her friendly manner. Mrs. Stoll was a dedicated educator in the social studies department and sponsor of the Future Teachers for eleven years. She started a program to teach Mishawaka students how to read newspapers and later at the State University of Iowa taught other teachers how to conduct similar programs.

The untimely death of Mr. Russell Arndt was felt not only in the school but also in the community. Mr. Arndt was a man of many facets. Liking to work with young people, Mr. Arndt served his community in the realms of education, athletics, the DeMolay, and the church. His courage, determination, and will to live inspired young men and women. In his conduct, he was a gentleman; and in his search for the best of life, he was unrelenting. He gave the best of himself to young people and encouraged them to do their best.

Although Mishawaka High School and the community have lost two fine friends, their memory lives on and makes all of us a little richer for having known them.

FORT ROBERTSON. A morning ritual at the home of Mr. David Robertson, world history teacher, is the raising of the flag.

LAST DAY. Following the Cap and Gown Assembly, seniors Marcia Kraft and Dick LeMon, with a bit of nostalgia, walk through the halls for the last time as students of MHS.

Excited and Confident

Even before September classes had begun, the 467 members of the class of '66 were anticipating the new privileges and excitement that were part of being a senior. The long-awaited rings arrived in August adding a final touch to that senior feeling. With first floor lockers and front assembly seats they were envied by the underclassmen. In November under a new director, Mr. James Wright, talented seniors presented Cuckoos on the Hearth, a comical murder mystery. The stage was cleared just in time for the fall NHS induction when 17 surprised seniors were inducted at the formal candlelight ceremony. Another five percent were inducted in the spring.

In November college-bound seniors gave up their precious Saturday morning sleep to take the SAT. After Christmas they had fun on weekends at the new Y Centre dancing to the music of the Tradewinds and the Teen Tones. At school the pace quickened as the semester drew to a close.

in New Status, Class of '66 Finally Are Big Seniors

Spring brought thoughts of graduation and the future. Trying to raise their averages, seniors burned the midnight oil working on source themes, vocab cards, and physics experiments. Graduation seemed too near when seniors gave their orders for name cards and paid for caps and gowns.

On Thursday, May 26, scholarly looking seniors took their last final examinations. The following day at the Cap and Gown Assembly deserving seniors received various honors and departmental awards and heard the speeches of valedictorian Nancy Cornetet and salutatorian Tim Walters. After the assembly friends traded name cards and said their last goodbyes. On June 3 couples attended the 1966 prom where they danced until midnight and picnicked the next day at Tower Hill. Finally Commencement arrived and seniors looked back on their four years at MHS. They would miss their fun and friends, but they looked to the future.

WELL-WISHERS. Jolene Leniski writes "Break a Leg," a theatrical term meaning good luck, as Kathy Thompson watches. Signs on lockers identified Senior Play cast members.

FANTASY LAND. "Keep Stuffing" was the order as decoration committee members transformed the gymnasium into "The Hall of the Mountain King" for the 1965 junior-senior promenade.

Juniors Make Varsity Teams, Write for Publications

JUNIOR OFFICERS. With the help of their counselor, Miss Audra Rea, Vice-President Mike Kuharic, President Steve Chung, and Secretary Janan Daffron plan this year's activities. Treasurer Kent Grant was not present when the picture was taken.

AUTOGRAPH. "Lots of luck to a swell girl," writes Bob Reidenbach as he signs his picture for Karen Billett.

As upperclassmen the juniors enjoyed many new privileges, but because they were juniors they also had to make many new decisions. In the fall some joined the new International Relations Club which was open only to upperclassmen. They elected two attendants for the Homecoming Court—Diana Culp and Jackie Davis and chose two Board of Control members—Chuck Wukovits and Mark Swanson. In the spring they presented the Junior Class Play, took the National Merit Scholarship Test, and thought seriously about their choices of college.

Many juniors dropped out of clubs because of the new quota of only three clubs. On the Miskodeed staff 29 juniors ran errands for the senior staff. In Room 225 five juniors assisted the Alltold page editors. Eight juniors made the varsity football team. While eight junior girls cheered the basketball team as members of the new cheerblock, eight junior boys dominated the varsity team.

Studies were important to juniors as they realized the importance of good grades for college acceptance. College Preparatory students tackled problems in chemistry while typing students worried about getting in enough timed writings. After three years of hard study, a group of juniors from the upper five percent of their class made National Honor Society.

Joining More Clubs; Sophomores Enjoy New Status

The class of '68 bubbled over with enthusiasm and new found status. Susan Hess served as the class's first representative on the Board of Control. Sophomores cheered their athletic stars playing on varsity and B-teams for the first time. Many erstwhile walkers enjoyed the prestige of driving cars. With this new prestige came the responsibility of following the new school rules concerning driving. Dating flourished as parents gave in to later hours and more privileges.

With increased status came new problems. Finding lack of money a pressing one, many sophomore boys got jobs to pay for their cars and dates. In school sophomores found biology, geometry, American literature, and beginning vocational courses challenging subjects. The class of '68 had a wonderful time taking an increased part in MHS activities.

Modern Mathematics Worries Perplexed Freshmen

Finding high school life new and exciting, 548 freshmen became Mishawaka High School's class of 1969. The freshmen, although bewildered at first, soon became part of MHS.

Freshmen displayed school spirit, had fun, and met many new friends by participating in freshman sports and joining school clubs. In the 99 member cheerblock 72 were freshmen. To help others, freshmen joined Red Cross, bought TB seals, and gave food or money to the Share Project.

In classrooms some freshmen studied a foreign language while others learned about their government in citizenship. They read something old—David Copperfield and studied something new—modern math. While the boys drew three-dimensional objects in drafting, the girls prepared meals in home ec. The class of 1969 will long remember their first year.

New Chairs, Tables, Shelves Give Miskodeed Room New Look

"This is the same old Miskodeed room?" asked visiting members of the '65 staff. Modern tables and canyon-gold chairs provided the new look in Room 219. At Thanksgiving we cleared the room of all its contents and awaited the installation of new bulletin boards and shelves. Carefully dividing up bulletin board space, we ended all squabbles as to who could tack their pictures where, and later, inspired by Mr. Thurston's campaign for better bulletin boards, we added bright flashes of colored paper from chartreuse to shocking pink.

Fitting rectangular pictures into square spaces and filling the allotted copy space created a few of our many problems. Picture taking, we thought, would be somewhat easier and more fun with the use of our new light camera. Unfortunately reloading and focusing two completely different cameras proved to be a tricky job. The problem of identifying our twin Miskoeditors, Carol and Karen Wagner, was usually solved by addressing either one as simply "one of the Wagners."

Although working toward deadlines filled our time with tedious work, we greeted such interruptions as Ron Shown's buttered popcorn and Connie Makielski's pizza with pleasure. Like our predecessors we spent many after-school hours celebrating birthdays. Frequently forgetting things, we sent an unwilling Chuck Schalliol running home to secure such items as bottle openers and birthday candles.

We had fun, but we worked hard too. We hope, dear reader, that your book with its five colored pictures is one you will be proud to show. We have compiled its pictures and copy especially for you and about you, the students and friends of Mishawaka High School.

Acknowledgments

The Miskodeed staff wishes to thank many people who helped make the 1966 Miskodeed possible. Our thanks go to Mr. Larry Wells of the Associates Engraving Company, who assisted us with our layout and helped us make decisions on picture choices; Mr. Jack Bundy and the S.K. Smith Company, who combined our cover ideas into a workable design; Mr. Edward Andros and Mr. Russell Chubb, who took many of our pictures and developed all our film; and the Messrs. Toms and George Graessle and the Graessle-Mercer Company of Seymour, Indiana, who printed our book.

We also are grateful for the assistance of Miss Rosa Weikel, who advised us on the cover and art work; Mr. Kenneth Armel, who helped us select our type; Mr. Howard Currier and the stage crew, who set up backgrounds for activities pictures; the English and sponsor room teachers, who assisted with underclass pictures; Miss Thelma Martin, who advised us on grammar problems; the many teachers who patiently answered our questions about their subjects and activities; and Student Council members, who helped with the subscription drives in their sponsor rooms. We extend a big "Thank You" to all of you.

As the 1966 Miskodeed went to press, the faculty and student body grieved at the death of senior Bruce Lawall. Bruce's sincerity and friendly nature will be missed by his family and also by MHS students and faculty. Even though Bruce's life was short, Mishawaka is a better place for his presence.
